PRIVACY
THE FOUNDATION OF TRUST

TRUST
Unsurprising

The data controller should collect and process personal data for specific purposes, and it should not deviate from such purposes. In its collection and processing, a data controller should observe the principle of proportionality, under which data collection should be reduced to the minimum.